It is a great pleasure that the “8th European Conference on Gender Equality in Higher Education” takes place at the Vienna University of Technology. The conference brings together researchers, university teachers, administrators, policy makers, practitioners and students and offers a discussion platform on working cultures, family & career, recruitment policies and international perspectives on gender equality at university level.

Almost 20 years after the World Conference on Women in Beijing and after 15 years of Gender Mainstreaming in the European Union gender equality at universities remains an unfulfilled promise. Women continue to be in the minority among researchers. Four out of five professors in Europe are men, as are nine out of ten of the heads of European universities.

Despite these unsatisfactory facts at present, there is a strong political commitment to promote gender equality in higher education. Therefore, it is time to reflect critically on the status quo of women in higher education and to develop new strategies for the future. Hopefully this conference will mutually reinforce the European countries to move forward together in achieving this target and all the participants will give input!

I want to thank the TU Vienna, the other stakeholders and the European network for the preparation of the conference and wish you a fruitful exchange of experiences!

Gabriele Heinisch-Hosek
Austrian Federal Minister of Education and Women Affairs
The European conference „Gender Equality in Higher Education“ makes an exchange on gender equality in the European higher education and research area possible. The bringing together of the participating countries’ scientific findings and varied practical expertise promises to result in practice-oriented measures, which enable the development of measures in higher education.

The conference title “Building Futures – Equality Challenges in Higher Education: Encouraging Theory and Practise Dialogues” – selected in cooperation with national and international experts, is meant to direct our focus to the future.

To shape a gender-equitable future, we need trend-setting positioning, as well as concerted European strategies for the advancement of gender equality. The European Commission and the EU-Member States are well on track to gender equality with their established practices (ERA priorities, Horizon 2020).

The current challenges reflect the conference’s core themes: “Leaky Pipeline”, the promotion of young scientists, recruiting processes, quality assurance of academic achievements, the implementation of gender dimensions in research and research-oriented teaching, work-life balance, and the academic working culture.

The Austrian Federal Ministry of Science, Research and Economy will follow the conference contributions with great interest and we expect to receive valuable inspirations for the further development of our work towards gender equality.

Elmar Pichl
Director General of the Higher Education Sector,
Austrian Federal Ministry of Science, Research and Economy
For almost 200 years, the Vienna University of Technology – TU Wien – has been a place of research, teaching and learning in the service of progress. In recent years, a new agenda – equal treatment, equal opportunities and equal access for all genders – has entered the scene. Likewise, questions regarding the integration of Gender Studies into curricula and debates on the gender dimensions in research arose. TU Wien has made serious efforts to establish itself as a “women-friendly” university. The Office for Gender Competence at TU Wien was established in January 2005. It is a service facility with two basic fields of activity: promoting women on the one hand and, on the other hand, initiating, strengthening and institutionalising women and gender studies and research at the TU Wien.

We are gratified that the Federal Ministry of Science, Research and Economy has now acknowledged these efforts by charging TU Wien with hosting and organizing the 8th European Conference on Gender Equality in Higher Education. TU Wien gladly takes this opportunity to send a visible signal that gender equality is still high on our agenda. I would therefore like to warmly welcome all participants of the Conference at TU Wien and wish you productive and inspiring discussions.

Sabine Seidler
Rector of Vienna University of Technology

SOCIAL PROGRAM

Please note that it is necessary to register for ALL social programmes.

- Reception at Town Hall
  The big evening-reception at Vienna Town Hall will be on 3rd September at 20:00. Please bring your name badges to enter!

- Conference Dinner
  The conference dinner is scheduled at 4th September. Busses will take all participants to a lovely Viennese Heuriger (=wine tavern). Meeting place: at the registration desk of the conference. In order to secure enough busses and seats please register in advance!

2nd September

- Theatre:
  Curie_Meitner_Lamarr_undividable is a one-woman stage play that portrays three scientists and inventors from different historical periods. As different as their biographies are, there are also similarities between them, be it the refusal of acknowledgement or be it conflicts with a restrictive female role model. The play is scheduled for 2nd September and starts at 20:00.

3rd September

- Guided Tour from TU Wien to Town Hall
  A guided tour for those who want to take a walk to the reception in the Town Hall. The focus of the walk will be on urban planning from a feminist perspective. The walk will take about 90 minutes and is guided by planners from TU Wien and the Vienna University of Natural Resources and Life Sciences. Meeting time: Wednesday 3rd September at 18:45, Meeting Place: at the registration desk of the conference.

4th September

- Guided Tour of famous painting Gallery
  The Paintings Gallery of the Academy of Fine Arts is one of the three internationally most important collections of Old Master Paintings in Vienna. Situated on the first floor of the Academy of Fine Arts, the museum shows treasures such as the Last Judgement by Hieronymus Bosch, masterpieces by Cranach the Elder, Titian and Rubens and Rembrandt. During the guided tour some of the pictures will be analysed from a feminist perspective. The Academy is within a 10 minute walking distance from the conference venue. Meeting time: Thursday 4th September at 13:15, Meeting Place: at the registration desk of the conference.
4th September

- Guided Tour on Women’s history in Vienna City Center
  A guided tour of the Vienna city centre that takes you along women’s places and reports about famous women and their (often forgotten) achievements. The tour will take about 90 minutes. Meeting time: Thursday 4th September at 13:30, Meeting Place: at the registration desk of the conference.

5th September

- Guided Farewell-Tour – sneak city walk
  This guided tour will take you to well-known and to unknown places in Vienna. Wait and see what happens! Meeting time: Friday 5th September at 15:30, Meeting Place: at the registration desk of the conference.

GREEN MEETING

This conference complies with the criteria of the Austrian Eco-label “Green Meetings/Events”.

Let us think about the environment and our future – act sustainable:

Thank you for your help!

- If this is possible, use environmentally compatible, public means of transportation to travel to the event location, or share a car.
- If you cannot or do not want to do without your car, or if you travel by plane, you can offset your CO2 emissions by means of compensation payments.
- If possible, choose an eco-labelled hotel (Austrian Eco-label, European Ecolabel, EMAS or others).
- Make use of the environmentally benign offers of your hotel (change of towels and bedlinen only when needed or the like).
- Turn off all lights, electronic equipment (TV, air condition system, heating, computer etc.) when you leave the hotel room for some time.
- Reusability = environmental protection: Give preference to drinks served by the glass, meals served on crockery, milk and sugar without individual packaging etc.
- Dispose of your waste (PET, glass, paper, metal, batteries, etc.) via the separate collection systems provided at the hotel and at the event venue.
- Use public transportation or walk.
- If possible, use online registration and/or digital materials instead of paper copies / handouts.
- Use your own writing utensils.
- Return your name badges at the information desk after the event.

In this sense, this conference takes the following measures:

- We only print the most essential documents.
- We only use totally chlorine-free bleached TCF paper for our printed materials.
- Our congress bags are reusable.
- Our badges will be reused.
- Our catering includes sustainable criteria such as regionality, seasonality and organic quality.
- We only use reusable dishes.
Loukas Balafoutas

Loukas Balafoutas was born in 1981 in Athens, Greece. He studied Banking and Financial Management before earning his M.Sc. and Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Edinburgh in 2008 and his habilitation from the University of Innsbruck in 2013. He has taught economics in Edinburgh, Athens and Innsbruck and worked as a visiting scholar at the University of Athens, Brown University, University of California at San Diego and Georgetown University School of Foreign Service in Qatar. In addition to his academic career Prof. Balafoutas has worked for the OECD Development Centre, where he co-authored a book on the economies of the countries in the Black Sea and Central Asia region and in particular on labor market conditions and policies. During that time he was involved in policy discussions with many of the region’s countries. Prof. Balafoutas is currently Professor of Experimental Economics at the Department of Public Finance, University of Innsbruck. His research focuses mainly on behavior in tournaments and labor markets, on the provision of public goods, on credence goods, and on social norms and social preferences. He uses mainly experimental methods in his research, both in the laboratory and in the field, often combined with concepts from game theory and insights from social sciences other than economics. He is the author or co-author of several publications in highly-ranked academic journals. His research has attracted considerable media attention from outlets mostly in the German-speaking world but also in Britain, Greece and Italy.
Caroline Belan-Menagier

Ms. Belan-Menagier has been in charge for three years of Gender in Higher Education and Research in the Equal Opportunities and Anti-Discrimination Office at the Ministry of Higher Education and Research in France (since April 2014: Department for Strategy on Human Resources, Equality and the Fight against Discriminations, Secretary of State for Higher Education and research, Ministry for Education). She is more particularly in charge of European strategy for research and education.

Ms Belan-Menagier is a French representative to the Helsinki Group on Women in science, the advisory group to DG Research at the European Commission and to the European Research Area Committee. She is the French gender expert for the Strategic Committee of Horizon 2020 – the European-funded research framework programme. She is in charge of defining French policy positions on Gender and research in European and International contexts (OECD, CEDAW, etc.) She has devised and is leading the strategic work package of the EU-funded Gender-Net era-net, a tool that is meant to network all active Member States in order to analyse, recommend and implement transnational gender policies within the network and beyond to fasten and reach a critical mass of research institutions in Europe with efficient gender policies.

Ms Bélan-Ménagier is also the Vice-Chair of a EU-funded network of 33 countries, COST genderSTE (gender in science, technology and the environment; http://www.genderste.eu/). This network is a policy and research tool that aims at fostering the implementation of gender policies in research as well as the integration of the gender dimension in environment-related issues (energy, climate, transport, cities, etc.) The main networking tools gather more and less advanced countries in order to trigger cooperation and awareness-raising and allow for short term missions to make best practice exchange concrete and more efficient in the long run.

When she was a Teaching and Research Temporary Attaché, She was involved in research in cooperation with two research centers on Anglophone studies in France: CERCLES (Rouen University) and GRAAT (Tours University). As such she has directed an on-line publication, “Defining Americanization ; 19” in March 2008 and has given many papers on American religion (notably Puritanism and well as the character of the Devil in the Bible) at the French Association of American Studies (AFEA). She has also been invited, in the framework of scientific popularization, to speak at the Beaux-Arts Museum of Rouen and in the local Prison.

She has completed a Master's Degree in American civilization, and done research on religion in American Culture. Thanks to EU-funded Erasmus programme, she has studied at Goldsmith’s College, University of London (UK) and at the University of Oklahoma, Oklahoma State (US). After two years as a teacher of English in High School in France she was recruited at the University of ROUEN, Normandy to teach American Civilization and to create and implement e-learning and work placement trainings in the Department of Applied Languages. After 8 years in Rouen she was recruited at the University of TOURS, Loire Valley to settle multimedia language resource centers.

Elizabeth Pollitzer

Elizabeth Pollitzer has been director of Portia since 2001. Portia was set up by a group of women scientists at Imperial College London to promote actions improving women’s place in science, as well as understanding of gender issues affecting quality of research and innovation. Until 2005 she was working at the Department of Computing at Imperial. Since then, through Portia, she focused on projects that bring scientists, gender scholars, and policy makers together to assess research evidence and arrive at a consensus on the actions that must be taken to make science fair, effective, and responsive to societal needs – women’s and men’s. The most significant of these efforts was the FP7 funded project genSET, which Portia coordinated, and which involved science leaders in considering gender research and advising science institutions, including the European Commission, on what were the common gender problems in science and what must be done to correct them. This advice “from science leaders for science leaders” led to the formation in 2011 of Gender Summit as a platform where scientists, gender scholars and policy makers, as well as other stakeholders in science, can discuss new gender research and assess how it can be used to improve quality of research and innovation, and make science institutions better. The 2012 Gender Summit took place at the European Parliament, during the debate on Horizon 2020 budget, and, with the efforts of other groups, helped ensure that gender was included in Horizon 2020 as a criterion of success. In 2013 the Gender Summit was introduced to North America, under the leadership of NSF, and in 2015, it will be introduced to Africa and to Asia, and then in 2016 to Latin America. In 2011, she was member of the EC Expert Group on structural change. In her lecture she will review the key advancements on gender issues in science that have been made in Europe in the last few years and consider if sustainable change is at last happening, and if soon the “leaky pipeline” will be committed to history.

Maya Widmer

Maya Widmer is in charge of gender equality in the research funding process at the Swiss National Science Foundation SNSF. After graduating in German and English studies at the University of Zurich, she worked as scientific assistant, editor and education expert. She lectured, among others, at the universities of Zurich and Basel. Maya Widmer is member of the steering committee of the “Federal Programme for Gender Equality at Swiss Universities”, which she coordinated between 2001 and 2004 on national level. She has been member of the Helsinki Group since 2004, and she chaired the expert group on “Women in Research Decision Making” established by the European Commission 2006-2007.

Viviane Willis-Mazzichi.
Head of Sector “Gender”, DG Research & Innovation, European Commission

The Sector “Gender” develops the strategy on Gender Equality in the European Policy for Research and Innovation and coordinates its implementation. The strategy encompasses three objectives:

- Equal participation of female and male scientists at all levels
- Equal participation of women and men in decision-making
- Integration of sex and gender analysis in research content and programmes

It is implemented within the European Framework Programme Horizon 2020 and the European Research Area in collaboration with the Member States, Associated Countries and research institutions.

Most recent publications:

- SHE Figures 2012

- Structural change in research institutions

- Gendered Innovations

- Gender equality Policies in public research – released on 1st September 2014
Alison Woodward

Alison E. Woodward (Ph.D. University of California, Berkeley) is Research Professor at the Free University of Brussels (VUB) and co-director of RHEA, the Center for Gender Studies and Diversity Research. She is a Senior Associate of the Institute for European Studies at the VUB. She worked for 15 years in Sweden at Kungliga Tekniska Hogskolan and Uppsala University and has had guest positions at Ruhr University, Wayne State, the Science Center (WZB) in Berlin and other institutions.

In recent years she has been active in scientific evaluation as chair of the Social Science Expert Panel of the Flemish Scientific Research Fund (FWO) and member of the Standing Committees on Social Sciences of the European Science Foundation and Science Europe. Her recent publications include (with J.M. Bonvin and M. Renom, eds.) Transforming Gendered Well-Being in Europe: The Impact of Social Movements (Ashgate, 2011) and “From Equal Treatment to Gender Mainstreaming and Diversity Management” in Gendering the European Union (J. Mushaben and G. Abels, eds.Palgrave Macmillan, 2012) “Gender and European Politics” in Routledge Handbook of European Politics (J. M. Magone, forthcoming) and work on the impact of austerity on civil society (Open Citizenship 2013-4:1 12-21). Working as a policy consultant she has assisted the European Commission, the Council of Europe, the United Nations and the Flemish government, and is frequently relied upon for expert contributions relating to social exclusion, gender and politics.
